

International coordinator with focus on gender rights, accountability and community support (one-year maternity leave substitute)

CEE Bankwatch Network, an international environmental organisation with member groups across central and eastern Europe, is looking for candidates to fill the full time position (one-year maternity leave substitute) of:

International coordinator

The successful candidate will work to support human rights defenders, communities and civil society organisations in the European Union's Eastern Neighbourhood and Central Asia that are affected by the investments of international financial institutions (IFIs). The candidate will help these groups defend their rights to information, participation in decision making and a clean and healthy environment. The successful candidate will also contribute to policy advocacy with the IFIs on issues such as human rights due diligence, gender rights and accountability. Interest and experience with gender policy will be an asset for the successful candidate.

Job description:

- Maintain contacts with multilateral development banks' staff and independent complaint mechanisms on specific projects, as well as their environmental, human rights and gender policies
- Collect and disseminate information on the projects and policies of international financial institutions
- Work with communities and organisations in the European Union's Eastern Neighbourhood and Central Asia
- Support communities with requesting information, communicating their opinions and participating in the decision-making of multilateral development banks
- Support communities in dialogue with multilateral development banks' corporate clients
- Facilitate capacity building and skills sharing among communities and civil society partners through advising, developing training materials, analysing materials and developing solutions, and holding training events and field trips

Expectations of the candidate:

- Background in or experience with human rights, gender, public participation and accountability is preferred
- Experience in community development and support for activists and human rights defenders
- Experience with organising events
- Readiness to work both in a team and independently
- Knowledge of development issues and an affinity for the Bankwatch mission are preferred
- Familiarity with the region and experience with working in international organisations is an asset
- Readiness to travel regionally, once the situation allows
- Fluency and good writing skills in English are required

Location:

To be based in a country where CEE Bankwatch Network has a member group office

Position type:

Full time, one-year maternity leave substitute

Salary:

Competitive salary for the NGO sector, commensurate with work experience.

Bankwatch strives to provide equal opportunities to all applicants. You will be considered for employment without attention to ethnicity, skin colour, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin or disability status.
