

Balkan Green Energy News, a leading sustainable energy and green economy news portal in the Balkan region, is looking for

to join our growing team. We encourage both graduates from Serbia and well-experienced journalists from the region to apply. If you are a starter, you are welcome to apply if you are keen on the topics of climate change, sustainability, and environmental protection and share our vision of a greener and sustainable future.

For applicants with more experience, we encourage journalists with a good knowledge of the English language and one or more languages from the region (Serbian / Croatian / Bosnian / Montenegrin / North Macedonian / Albanian / Slovenian / Romanian / Bulgarian / Greek) and experience in reporting and writing about the said topics to apply.

Also, you don't necessarily have to be a journalist to apply, but a professional in energy, environmental protection, waste, water, mobility, or climate change with a writing talent who follows the global trends in sustainable energy, green and smart technologies, and solutions.

We would love to hear from you!

What else we expect from experienced journalists:

- To have a proven track record of reporting and/or writing about energy, environmental protection and/or economy,
- To be open for new formats and styles in journalism, to innovate, to be creative, and able to adjust to new trends like video journalism,
- To be thorough, pay attention to details while being able to put a piece of news or a story in the broader framework,
- To be interested in working with people from various sectors, stakeholders' groups, levels of seniority, and countries,
- To be good in interviewing, digital journalism skills,
- To understand and analyze data to make meaningful news and public interest stories,
- To be skillful in developing, researching, and executing media projects.

How to apply?

Please send your CV to the following email: bgenjobs@balkangreenenergynews.com with a photo and the selection of published articles, videos, or other communication formats (as active links) and three references including contact details for your work in the last five years.

The deadline to apply is October 15, 2021.
